Season 9 Draft Prospects

RW

Dominik Lakatos

Nation: Czech Rep. Age: 18
Size: 6', 195 lbs.

CSS Rank - #1

Amazing puck skills and smart play are Lakatos' calling cards. It seems the puck is always connected to his stick when he is in tight quarters. Playing against men in the top Czech league, he scored at a pace of about 40 per 80 games. Scouts say he seems very mature for his age and they compare his demeanor and playing style to that of Sean Monahan. Lakatos was drafted in the 6th round of the 2017 draft by the New York Rangers but said the EURO league is his first choice. A future perennial all-star.; the kind of guy to build a franchise around.

DREAM: To win the EURO League Best Player trophy.

RW

Alexander Polunin

Nation: Russia Age: 21
Size: 5'9", 171 lbs.

CSS Rank - #2

Polunin is definitely the most EURO-ready player in the draft. He can step into any lineup in the league tomorrow and on some teams, as a first-line winger. Perhaps the fastest skater available, he projects to be a goal scorer and good point producer. The only thing he lacks is size. Polunin is creative and has a flair that will make him a crowd favorite soon in whatever city claims him. He could be the 1st overall pick. The Moscow native plays for Yaroslavl in the KHL.

DREAM: To be a 50-goal scorer for Moscow Dynamo in the EURO league.

D

Jacob Moverare

Nation: Sweden Age: 20
Size: 6'2", 200 lbs.

CSS Rank - #3

Maverare isn't the biggest or fastest defense prospect in the draft - although he is no slouch in those areas - but he is capable of concentrating and thinking out there for a full game. Very reliable. He keeps himself in good shape and is considered a very coachable player, the kind of defenseman who should play for a decade. He doesn't possess a very good slapshot but he has no holes in his game. He is currently an LA Kings prospect in the NHL.

DREAM: To get the call from the coach to be on the ice in the last minute of a Cup-deciding game.

C

Dylan Sikura

Nation: Canada Age: 20
Size: 5'10", 175lbs.

CSS Rank - #4

NHL scouts in the Black Hawks organization took Sikura in the 6th round of the 2014 draft, but the Aurora, Ont., native has been a top scorer on the NCAA's Northeastern University for the last couple of years. Slick and shifty, he will have to use his speed and skating ability to make up for a lack of size. Scouts liken him to Cam Atkinson and see a little Denis Savard in there too. He will never be named the league's best defensive forward, but he could lead a team in scoring.

DREAM: To win a Cup and play a young Benjamin Bratt in a movie during the same year.

G

Tanner Jaillet

Nation: Canada Age: 19
Size: 5'8", 176 lbs.

CSS Rank - #5

Jaillet, from Red Deer, Alberta, is too small to be a great goalie ... or so conventional thinking goes. But Jaillet played for the NCAA champion University of Denver last year and his save percentage over the last 6 seasons was between 90.9 and 93.3. Good goaltending is important and teams that think they are in dire need of a backstop will try to trade up to get him or Hungarian Attila Adorjan. Jaillet is technically sound and extremely quick on his skates.

DREAM: To be voted as the EURO League's best goalie.

Season 9 Draft Prospects

Attila Adorjan

Nation: Hungary/Romania
Age: 22 Size: 5'11", 185 lbs.

CSS Rank - #6

Adorjan's ranking is a surprise to some scouts, but not all. Growing up in Hungary and Romania, he was not exposed to the best hockey, but his numbers suggest skill as a goalie. When he has played internationally - with Romania's youth team - he has impressed. Like Jaillet, he is small but quick. Scouts are particularly impressed with his quick glove hand and his cool head.

Dream: To get shutouts in 4 straight EURO games.

Alexei Bereglazov

Nation: Russia Age: 18
Size: 6'4", 215 lbs.

CSS Rank - #7

A tower of Russian power already, the huge Bereglazov projects to be a modern day Tim Horton or Jerry Korab - a bear of a man who will clear the front of the net and make his presence known all over the ice. He seems to be a heads-up passer and could contribute on offense and the powerplay too. It might take Bereglazov several seasons to get into a lineup, but he will stay there for 8 or so years.

Dream: To break the glass with an opposing forward.

Roger Karrer

Nation: Switzerland Age: 19
Size: 5'11", 183 lbs.

CSS Rank - #8

The top Swiss draftee is likely to be Roger Karrer, who is exceptional with a puck. He always looks for an open teammate and if he doesn't find one, he has no problem carrying the puck up ice. The defensemen in this draft class all need help learning the defensive part of the game and Karrer is not an exception. Think of a bigger Jared Spurgeon, but a slightly lazier one, scouts advise.

Dream: To play top minutes for either Bern, Geneva or the team he grew up cheering for: Zurich.

Miro Aaltonen

Nation: Finland Age: 22
Size: 5'11", 191 lbs.

CSS Rank - #9

Finland should be well represented in the first round of the draft and Aaltonen might be the first to hear his name called. At 22, he is ready for EURO action now after stints in the KHL and Finnish leagues. He is versatile and can play any forward position. But if you are looking for a two-way player, Aaltonen is not your guy. Offense is his game and he does it very well. One of the best playmakers in the draft.

Dream: To put together a 6-point night in a EURO League game.

Calvin Thurkauf

Nation: Switzerland Age: 20
Size: 6'1", 203 lbs.

CSS Rank - #10

Thurkauf came to North America to play in the Western League with Kelowna and a host of NHL draftees such as Lucas Johansen, Cale Foote and Kole Lind. His goal output increased from 18 to 33 last season and he will be a year or two away from a roster spot once he's drafted. Hockey sense and shooting ability are his two strongest attributes, defense is his worst and scouts say he needs to use his size more to his advantage.

Dream: To score a hat trick and then show off the Spider Man costume under his hockey sweater.

Season 9 Draft Prospects

LW

Dominik Kubalik

Nation: Czech Rep. Age: 19
Size: 6'3", 195 lbs.

CSS Rank - #11

Tall and rangy, Kubalik projects to a solid winger who will be good in all areas but not outstanding anywhere. His skating lags behind many top prospects right now, but not enough to prevent him from going in the first round. He's a Kyle Okposo-type of player, most likely. But he is a bit of a project and whoever takes him will have to wait two seasons or more before they can entrust a roster spot to him.
Dream: To meet Lisbon GM Bryan Camara in person.

C

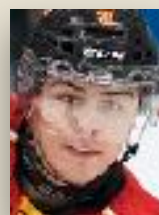

Aapeli Rasanen

Nation: Finland Age: 21
Size: 6'1", 190 lbs.

CSS Rank - #12

This Finn could go anywhere in a 10-spot range in the draft. He is offensively gifted and he has a motor that rarely slows, but he tends to shy away from contact and his personal philosophy about defense is that it's not all that important. The Edmonton Oilers took the playmaker in Round 6 two drafts ago and he's at Boston College right now. Likes to set up teammates.

Dream: To average one assist per game in the EURO League.

D

Alexis Vanier

Nation: Canada Age: 20
Size: 6'4", 218 lbs.

CSS Rank - #13

Vanier seemed to show more promise earlier in his young career and the San Jose Sharks took him 102nd in the 2014 NHL draft, but his stock has dipped since then. Still, he has great size and projects to be a No. 3 or 4 defenseman for most of his career. Skating is what needs to improve most, but he's a tough dude to play against and will get a team 10 to 15 goals in his prime.

Dream: To go back in time and wear designer jeans while dancing to Donna Summer songs in a disco.

LW

Filip Sveningsson

Nation: Sweden Age: 21 Size: 5'11", 180 lbs.

CSS Rank - #14

Fast with finesse, Sveningsson might go fairly high in the draft. He is not big and doesn't yet go to the dirty areas of the ice and scouts aren't sure he ever will. But in the Swedish leagues, he has produced at about a point a game and he is not a liability defensively. If he could pack on another 15 pounds and use it, then he could be a top line EURO player.

Dream: To score a game-winning goal on Swedish icon Henrik Lundquist.

G

Ivan Nalimov

Nation: Russia Age: 21
Size: 6'4", 210 lbs.

CSS Rank - #15

Russia's top young goalie might slip a few spots, as goalies often do in drafts, but look for him to be a regular starter in the EURO League. Scouts always make a point to praise his positioning and angle playing. He plays an aggressive style and sometimes gives up juicy rebounds, but he will be a starter in a few seasons. Chicago owns his NHL rights after drafting him in 2014.

Dream: To own a small island in the South Pacific. Hey, he's a goalie.

Season 9 Draft Prospects

D

Niclas Almari

Nation: Finland Age: 21
Size: 6'2", 191 lbs.

CSS Rank - #16

The Espoo, Finland, native plays an uptempo game and likes to rush the puck out of the defensive zone. Almari has all the physical tools coaches look for, but he is a little light in hockey sense. Still, look for him to develop into a solid, two-way defenseman who will peak as a top 4 blueliner. The Pittsburgh Penguins drafted him in in Round 5 of the 2016 NHL draft.

Dream: To be a first-team all-star in the EURO League

G

Peter Thome

Nation: USA Age: 21
Size: 6'2", 195 lbs.

CSS Rank - #17

Thome is athletic and determined to succeed but he has had trouble controlling emotions and blending in with teammates in the past, often openly blaming them for goals against. He played for 3 teams in 3 years in the USHL and is now at the University of North Dakota, putting together a 94.4 save percentage early in his career at the NCAA Div. I level.

Dream: To win a EURO Cup ... four times

C

Troy Loggins

Nation: USA Age: 22
Size: 5'10", 194 lbs.

CSS Rank - #18

This is the guy who gets the most mixed reviews from scouts. Some see a rising offensive star, while others say he will never be more than a third-liner who should not be taken in the first round. Enough teams like the improvement he has been showing at Northern Michigan University to assure he goes earlier rather than later. The California kid can start on a fourth line today.

Dream: To be an 80-point scorer on a top EURO League team.

D

Layne Viveiros

Nation: Austria Age: 20
Size: 6'1", 195 lbs.

CSS Rank - #19

When he played for the Portland Winterhawks in the WHL, Viveiros showed incredible improvement, jumping from 20 points 43 in one year, blossoming into an offensive defenseman. He's pretty good in all areas, but not great in any and he has been a bit fragile in his career. The team that takes him better have an injury-backup handy. Viveiros will eventually be plugged into a second pairing and find time on the top PP unit.

Dream: To meet Rose and Sepp Blatter in the EURO League office in Vienna.

D

Linus Hogberg

Nation: Sweden Age: 18
Size: 6'2", 185 lbs.

CSS Rank - #20

The team that takes Hogberg will have a long time to wait before moving him from the farm club. But when he finally makes it, they might have a speedy defenseman with good size who can handle a puck. The NHL Philadelphia Flyers picked him in 2016, but he has some good young competition ahead of him on that depth chart. Some scouts are critical of the young Swede's compete level.

Dream: To play every day for his hometown Stockholm Eagles.

Season 9 Draft Prospects

Tim Bozon

Nation: France Age: 23
Size: 6'1", 203 lbs.

CSS Rank - #21

The oldest Bozon in the draft is also one of the oldest men in the draft and he could play immediately for any team. On top of that, he has a lousy agent who negotiated a 5-year-at-$875,000 deal, meaning the team that takes him will have some salary cap freedom for a long time. Bozon is a good skater who will be a solid defensive forward and penalty killer. Don't expect more than that out of him.

Dream: To play with younger brother Kevin in a EURO League game.

Charles Williams

Nation: USA Age: 21
Size: 5'10", 185 lbs.

CSS Rank - #22

Williams is not consistent, a trait which bothers all coaches. When he's on, he can steal a game; when he's off, the second half of the game might as well be a practice to work on plays. Williams, a Michigan native, transferred from Ferris State to Canisius College and immediately flourished, putting together a 94.3 save percentage. He is currently in the ECHL and he projects to be a decent starter in the EURO League.

Dream: To surprise everyone and win Best Goalie in the EURO.

Alexey Toropchenko

Nation: Russia Age: 21
Size: 6', 185 lbs.

CSS Rank - #23

Teams looking for offense will be happy to snap up Toropchenko in the first round of the draft. He is not speedy and doesn't seem to move well on the ice, but he has a knack for getting involved in scoring plays in front of the opposition net. The NHL St. Louis Blues drafted him in 2017 and he has a good chance of playing for them some day. But the Moscow boy will play in the EURO League too, which is his preference.

Dream: To score 4 goals in a game.

Stephane Da Costa

Nation: France Age: 19
Size: 5'11", 186 lbs.

CSS Rank - #24

Da Costa is young but scouts see a skill center with a nose for the net. He can handle a puck and seems perfect for your powerplay in the far-off future. Da Costa played in the NCAA with Merrimack College, producing at a pace of more than a point per game. He also has international experience, playing for France. His main deficiencies are size and defensive play.

Dream: To land on a line with a good playmaker and score 30 EURO goals in a season.

Thomas Spelling

Nation: Denmark Age: 23
Size: 6', 186 lbs.

CSS Rank - #25

The Dane will step right into a EURO League lineup and might even compete for the Top Rookie trophy. He is a goal scorer who does not ignore his defensive responsibilities. Many scouts say he could be gone by the time pick 15 rolls around, partially because of an attractive salary structure. But at 23, his ceiling is closer than most draft-eligible players and he tends to get pushed around often by stronger players, taking him out of plays.

Dream: To win the EURO League's Top Rookie trophy.

Season 9 Draft Prospects

Andreas Eder

Nation: Germany Age: 21
Size: 6'2", 197 lbs.

CSS Rank - #26

The Bavarian has put up some impressive offensive numbers in his career thus far and many scouts see Eder being able to produce decent numbers in the EURO eventually. His skating and energy level would have to improve, however, in order for him to make a team's number one line long-term. He is more likely to mature as a solid second-line winger who is careful with the puck. He hates making mistakes out there.

Dream: Simply to make friends on a EURO team and go out for beers after games.

Matthias Asperup

Nation: Denmark Age: 19
Size: 6', 172 lbs.

CSS Rank - #27

Asperup might develop into a decent puckhandler,/ possession forward in the EURO League. Scouts like his basic tool kit although they would like to see him increase his work rate and gym workouts. He has extensive experience at the international level and has been a good point producer for the red and white. Asperup is patient on the ice and would be a good powerplay guy along the boards.

Dream: To carry Copenhagen to a EURO Cup title.

Marian Studenic

Nation: Slovakia Age: 19
Size: 5'11", 197 lbs.

CSS Rank - #28

Sturdy and speedy, Studenic projects to be one of the better checking forwards in the draft class. His hockey sense isn't great, and he seems to fly around helter-skelter, but he's young and he goes hard to the net and into the corners. Think of a Max Talbot/Pascal Dupuis type of player. He currently plays in the OHL with the Hamilton Bulldogs, with whom he put up 18 goals and 21 assists in 58 games last year.

Dream: To play for Bratislava and be known as one of the league's best checking forwards.

Henrik Haapala

Nation: Finland Age: 23
Size: 5'9", 175 lbs.

CSS Rank - #29

If Haapala was taller and meatier, he would be a first-round pick. Because of his high hockey IQ and revved-up work rate, he might go in Round 1 anyway, but the little guy is not a Johnny Gaudreau or Tyler Ennis. He just doesn't have the creativity to be a playmaker at the highest level. Plus, he gets knocked off the puck very easily. But he can fire the puck and he's very quick. Connor Sheary would be a fair comparison to Haapala.

Dream: To chalk up a Top Rookie trophy and then a EURO Cup.

Spencer Smallman

Nation: Canada Age: 23
Size: 6' 200 lbs.

CSS Rank - #30

Smallman isn't huge, but he's not a small man, despite his name. At 6-foot, 200 pounds, Smallman projects to be a scoring winger who will play gritty and drive hard to the net. He is close to being able to play right way in the EURO league and he has just one glaring hole in his game and that's an inability to play defensive hockey. The team that takes him will have a Justin Williams type.

Dream: To play in Europe and afford a sports car that he can get up to 120 mph on the Autobahn.

Season 9 Draft Prospects

Maxim Sushko

Nation: Belarus Age: 20
Size: 6'1", 195 lbs.

CSS Rank - #31

A Philadelphia Flyers draft pick, Sushko seems to maturing two days every day on the hockey rink. He plays for Owen Sound in the OHL and is suddenly averaging a point a game. He is a good athlete and is striving to play a two-way game, but some scouts aren't sold by his OHL stats. They say they don't notice him during games and say he makes questionable decisions.

Dream: To play for Minsk and help them win another Cup.

Jiri Patera

Nation: Czech Rep. Age: 22
Size: 6'2", 195 lbs.

CSS Rank - #32

Prague native Patera was a late-round draft pick of the Vegas Golden Knights, so thanks to injuries, he has zoomed up the depth chart. Playing in his native Czech Republic, Patera has proven to be inconsistent, but he has good size and technique and shows enough promise to be a middle-of-the-pack starter in the EURO League, maybe a little better than that with good support from the skaters on a good team.

Dream: To serve as Sparta's starting goalie some day and to conduct youth clinics in his hometown.

Moritz Wirth

Nation: Germany Age: 21
Size: 6'2", 210 lbs.

CSS Rank - #33

There will be a few similar defensemen available in this part of the draft, including Wirth, who hails from Frankfurt. Scouts like his size, toughness and his cool way of moving the puck out of his team's end. The kid can pass and should be a shoo-in on a top powerplay unit in about 5 years. His lateral mobility is sub-par, and that affects his defensive play.

Dream: To date a model or actress.

Andong Song

Nation: China Age: 20
Size: 6'1", 195 lbs.

CSS Rank - #34

A stay-at-home defenseman, Song has played in North America the last several seasons and acquitted himself well. A big fish in a huge little pond back home, he projects to be - at most - a quiet but steady top 4 blueliner in the EURO League. He will also get onto the ice often when a teammate is in the penalty box. Being from a poor hockey country has hurt his hockey sense, but he is good enough for full-time work.

Dream: To meet boyhood hero Wei Yang Zhang (now of Moscow), preferably as a teammate.

Erik Kallgren

Nation: Sweden Age: 23
Size: 5'10", 180 lbs.

CSS Rank - #35

The best goalies in this draft class aren't very big, but they have quick reflexes. Kallgren is another example. He has really shined in international play with a solid Swedish team in front of him and he has put together some nice seasons in league play in his country. Like most other goalies, he has let some stinkers in and had the occasional bad year and that scares some GMs. Kallgren will start out as a cheap backup, but he could develop into more before his days are done.

Dream: To be in goal in a 0-0 game and then stop 6 players in a shootout to win it.

Season 9 Draft Prospects

Rhett Gardner

Nation: Canada Age: 20
Size: 6'3", 225 lbs.

CSS Rank - #36

The best fighter in the draft is Rhett Gardner of Saskatchewan and he knows it. He's no goon, though. When he hits, he hits cleanly. When he's not playing hockey, he's lifting weights and he seems driven to be successful in all he does. He will find work due to his ability to grind and protect teammates, but he is capable of producing a few points too. Unfortunately, he is slow as a skater. Gardner reminds old-timers of Clark Gillies.
Dream: To be considered a useful guy to have around and then embark on a broadcasting career.

Roope Laavainen

Nation: Finland Age: 22
Size: 6'2", 195 lbs.

CSS Rank - #37

Helsinki-born Laavainen is a fun-loving soul who keeps things light in the dressing room and on road trips. On the ice, he is a smooth skater and an intelligent passer. He tends to get lackadaisical sometimes and scouts would like to see him get angry occasionally. But he will join the offense and play with flair, as he did when he played for the Jokerit juniors. He has been drafted by Chicago in the NHL.
Dream: To lead the Helsinki Jokerit to glory and then star in some Finnish movies.

Sam Duggan

Nation: England Age: 20
Size: 6'1", 188 lbs.

CSS Rank - #38

The Englishman is quite inexperienced compared to most others in the draft class, but he can score goals ... at least in the English leagues. In the best league in the world, he projects to be a third-liner at best. He should turn out to be a fairly solid winger who will hustle, hit and get to the opposing net. Can play all 3 forward positions.
Dream: To eventually finish all the Harry Potter books.

Chris Martenet

Nation: USA Age: 20
Size: 6'6", 220 lbs.

CSS Rank - #39

He will be hard to get around once he extends his arms, especially the one with the stick in it. The 6-6 Indianapolis native was drafted by the NHL Dallas Stars and is considered a long-term project. As one would expect, he's got size and strength, but he's not quick. He needs to improve his stick handling most and other parts of his game too, but he will provide value by protecting the front of the net and his teammates.
Dream: To lead the EURO League in blocked shots.

Nejc Kastelic

Nation: Slovenia Age: 20
Size: 5'8", 170 lbs.

CSS Rank - #40

When he is drafted, Kastelic will be one of the smallest men in the EURO League. His lack of size kept NHL teams from calling his name, but he has put up some incredible numbers for Slovenia in international play. In 112 games with the U20 team, he averaged 2 points per game. Scoring in the EURO will be much harder for the little speedster. He doesn't have the tools to come anywhere near that PPG average.
Dream: To win the Fastest Skater honor in a EURO League All-Star Skills Competition.

Season 9 Draft Prospects

Jason Brancheau

Nation: USA Age: 21
Size: 5'7", 175 lbs.

CSS Rank - #41

Short but sturdy, Brancheau is a little like Kastelic, his chief rival for the team looking for a small offensive center. The Michigan product doesn't have the wheels Kastelic has, but he makes up for it in smarts and hustle. Scouts think Brancheau will be a good playmaker eventually. A freshman at Ferris State this season, Brancheau likes to kid around all the time and most coaches don't like that quality. Scouts would like to see more desire to improve and conform.
Dream: To play regularly in Europe and follow up his career with one as a musician.

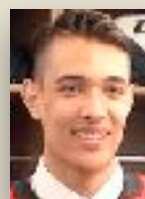

Rodrigo Abols

Nation: Latvia Age: 22
Size: 6'2", 200 lbs.

CSS Rank - #42

The name Rodrigo doesn't sound very Latvian, but Abols plays a little like another Riga native, Zemgus Girgensons. He projects to be a gritty hard-working forward who will have more assists than Girgensons but not be as good defensively. Abols will pile up assists with the right linemates. A late 2016 draft pick of the NHL Vancouver Canucks, Abols has the raw tools to become an effective producer.
Dream: To win competitive eating contests in Europe and North America.

D'Artagnan Joly

Nation: Canada Age: 23
Size: 6'1", 198 lbs.

CSS Rank - #43

Teams less willing to wait for players to develop will lean toward sturdy Canadian winger D'Artagnan Joly. His skill set is pretty balanced and he doesn't seem to have many holes in his safe manner of playing. Scouts like his consistency and the fact he always does what's he supposed to on the ice. Lacks flair and isn't adventurous at all. Joly was a late draft pick of the Calgary Flames last year.
Dream: To play on a top forward line while seeing both penalty killing and powerplay duty.

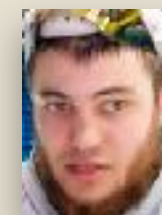

Tomas Hyka

Nation: Czech Rep. Age: 23
Size: 5'11", 190 lbs.

CSS Rank - #44

Hyka is a good skater and stickhandler who is smart about when to think offense and when to think defense. The fact he doesn't win many puck battles will keep him from being drafted higher. He is part of the NHL Los Angeles Kings system and currently scoring a nearly a point per game in the AHL. He does not have the tenacity to do that in the EURO but should be a solid second- or third-liner.
Dream: To be an all-star and to publish a book of haikus titled "Hyka's Haikus"

Eduard Zakharchenko

Nation: Ukraine Age: 23
Size: 6'1", 186 lbs.

CSS Rank - #45

Playing in Ukraine, a country in a shambles and at war can't be easy for young Zakharchenko, but somehow he has kept laser-fine focus on the ice. Scouts notice that his save percentage hasn't been below 94.3 during the last two seasons. He will need good coaching and a GM who invests in player development to become a long-term starter, but he can help any team.
Dream: To establish the goalie's version of a Gordie Howe Hat Trick, with a shutout, an assist and a fight in the same game.

Season 9 Draft Prospects

C/LW

Liam Stewart

Nation: England Age: 20
Size: 6'1", 181 lbs.

CSS Rank - #46

This kid doesn't care who drafts him. He has bounced around the world most of his life, from England, to New Zealand, to California for hockey, then to Spokane and Alaska ... the list goes on. On the ice, Stewart projects to be a grinder who will battle opposing defensemen all night long. He is poor with the puck so don't expect him to be more than a good teammate and "role player."

Dream: To step out of the shadow of his famous father, rock legend Rod Stewart.

C

Michal Kristof

Nation: Slovakia Age: 22
Size: 5'9", 160 lbs.

CSS Rank - #47

A quick, shifty speedster who can handle the puck and pile up points, Kristof will seem to appear out of nowhere and create a good scoring opportunity. But he is destined to fail in two areas: He is tiny and will get bounced off the puck easily; and he just isn't a hard worker. He needs to get into better shape and he needs to raise his work rate. He will probably be a second-line center and powerplay specialist.

Dream: To make a lot of money in hockey. (Not super motivated)

D

Nikita Voles

Nation: Belarus Age: 20
Size: 5'11", 170 lbs.

CSS Rank - #48

Voles still needs to mature physically a bit before he's ready to play with the big boys. He doesn't like to get beat and despite his slight frame, is not afraid to get tough with opposing forwards. He moves pretty well out there and if he learns when to pinch and when not to, he should secure a spot as a top 4 defenseman. His partner will have to do the crease clearing, though if Voles doesn't add muscle.

Dream: To be part of a defense corps that leads the league in fewest goals allowed.

F

Liam Kirk

Nation: England Age: 20
Size: 6'2", 160 lbs.

CSS Rank - #49

Kirk is one of the biggest question marks in the draft because he is so green, so plant him on the farm club and water him regularly if you draft him. He has yet to evolve but eventually, he should grow into a determined skater with a nose for the net. Scouts see some good signs in the way he skates and puck handles. They say he is - plain and simple - a poor defensive player, however.

Dream: To play for London and be known as the best English-born player in the EURO.

D

Andreas Borgman

Nation: Sweden Age: 19
Size: 6', 205 lbs.

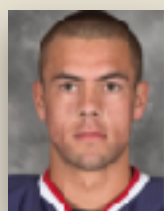

CSS Rank - #50

Borgman has good size and he loves to use it, but coaches will be correcting him frequently for going out of his way to make the highlight hit. He would be better served to stay in position more and use his strength to tie up people in front of the net or against the boards. The Swede is a project defenseman who has the tools to play regularly and may end up to be another Mattias Ekholm ... but not soon.

Dream: To surprise everyone and be eventually declared the steal of the Season 9 draft.

Season 9 Draft Prospects

Ryan Poehling

Nation: USA Age: 19
Size: 6'2", 187 lbs.

CSS Rank - #51

Poehling has already rubbed elbows with the best competition in his age group, having played for the US World Juniors team and two seasons at St. Cloud State in the NCAA. The Montreal Canadiens draft pick reminds some of Ryan O'Reilly by the way he protects the puck and positions himself in traffic and creates turnovers, but as a Websim prospect, any PO rating is possible.

Dream: To play on the top line of a EURO League team and simultaneously start a successful charity for disabled children.

Sandro Forrer

Nation: Switzerland Age: 22
Size: 5'10", 165 lbs.

CSS Rank - #52

This Swiss forward is a safe pick who is bound and determined to be known as a responsible two-way player. He might sneak onto your PP units, and the shorthanded group, but he won't be an all-star. He doesn't have the mindset to be a flashy scorer. He could use more muscle, but no one will criticize his work ethic. On a good team, he will score 50 points. On a struggling team, just 35.

Dream: To be voted as his team's unsung hero a few times.

Ludvig Rensfeldt

Nation: Sweden Age: 19
Size: 6'3", 198 lbs.

CSS Rank - #53

Jochen Hecht was a German, but that's who this Swede reminds people of. Rensfeldt has excellent size and while he doesn't move as well as most, he is a capable winger. He likes to cut to the net and will certainly do enough to stay on a third line, maybe getting in a few years on the number 2 line. One thing Rensfeldt has that Hecht never did is a mean streak. He will get lots of penalty box time.

Dream: To change the momentum in an important game by beating the other team's heavyweight in a fight.

Filip Chytil

Nation: Czech Repub. Age: 18
Size: 6'2", 190 lbs.

CSS Rank - #54

Even though the New York Rangers drafted him in the first round, Chytil went undrafted in the EURO League last season. Described as a dynamic offensive player. who excels in open ice, he will likely get picked in the third round, perhaps a lot higher. Chytil has 21 points in 26 games in the AHL. Websim prospects are real gambles because the attributes they initially receive with their NHL team stick with them for life.

Dream: To play against the New York Rangers in a challenge cup, or in a sequel to "Mystery, Alaska" called "Kromeriz, Czech Republic."

Yushi Nakayashiki

Nation: Japan Age: 19
Size: 6'3", 197 lbs.

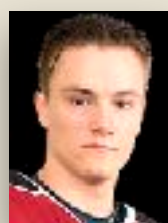

CSS Rank - #55

A star in his native Japan, Nakayashiki wants to see how he'd do in the EURO League. He will never be a big scorer, but scouts like what he can do as a power forward or grinder. He is 6-3, a good skater and a good student, so there is hope his skill will improve. He can also play center and is pretty good on faceoffs.

Dream: Make a good impression in the league, build more interest in Japan, and perhaps invest his salary into a bid to bring an expansion team to Tokyo.

Season 9 Draft Prospects

Kristaps Zile

Nation: Latvia Age: 18
Size: 6'1", 176 lbs.

CSS Rank - #56

Still young and inexperienced, scouts foresee a nasty, stay-at-home defenseman who will be among the league leaders in fighting majors. Zile is big on fitness and weight lifting but his skating needs a lot of work. It could actually keep him from being drafted. But he has shown an above average ability to read plays and get his body into the right places despite his lack of edge control. If he can stay out of the penalty box, Zile could be an effective penalty killer.
Dream: Have a winning record in the MMA.

Tobias Brighenti

Nation: Italy Age: 20
Size: 6'1", 188 lbs.

CSS Rank - #57

Bolzano, in the Tyrolian Alps, produces most of Italy's international hockey players. Alex Trivellato and Fabian Calovi are boys from that town who have made it to EURO teams and Brighenti should too. He will be a top 6 blueliner for sure, a top 4 guy perhaps, because he is a better passer than most. Most think he could have a better work rate, but scouts like the way he handles business along the boards and say he's a stand-up teammate.
Dream: To play for Milan and date Rose's niece.

Vasili Glotov

Nation: Russia Age: 23
Size: 5'11", 178 lbs.

CSS Rank - #58

The Russian is older than most draftees, so he won't improve as much, but the guy can be an effective playmaker. There isn't much that separates him from some of the all-offense guys higher up in the draft, other than his lack of upper body strength and the fact that his ceiling is lower. He is also a little more expensive than the rest. But he's a very good skater, crafty playmaker and he can handle the puck well.
Dream: Challenge for the Rookie of the Year award and help a team get deep into the playoffs.

Dominik Pas

Nation: Poland Age: 23
Size: 5'9", 150 lbs.

CSS Rank - #59

Every so often a Polish hockey player makes it into the scouting lists. Pas is his country's best young forward and brave teams will draft him without really having a good sample size of his work outside the country. Many put him ahead of Glotov and say he definitely has the better all-around game. There is a knock about his work ethic and his ability to mesh with teammates, but he will find full-time work in the league.
Dream: To score a hat trick in the EURO League, retire and invent a digital rubber puck that can be controlled by a game controller.

Mads Eller

Nation: Denmark Age: 20
Size: 6'1", 205 lbs.

CSS Rank - #60

Teams who like powerful, intimidating forwards will be happy with what they get from Eller. He has played in the WHL with Edmonton and a couple of other North American teams., never doing much in the points department. But he plays a smart defensive game and is quite aggressive. Many see a lot of Troy Brouwer in him with a dash of Cal Clutterbuck and a pinch of Steve Downie.
Dream: Earn his way to a top line as the guy who digs out pucks for the superstar scorer.

Season 9 Draft Prospects

Auguste Impose

Nation: Switzerland Age: 19
Size: 5'9", 187 lbs.

CSS Rank - #61

Born and raised in Switzerland, Impose's parents are from the Congo and he has dual citizenship. It's a safe bet if the African nation ever gets a national team, he's on it.

Impose will also make some EURO League team. He has experience with Geneva's youth teams and scored a lot of points. He is relatively short, but he's athletic and plays like a wrecking ball on the forecheck and he has no issues with going hard to the goal.

Dream: To be a Geneva General and an eventual 30-goal scorer.

Olegs Sislannikovs

Nation: Latvia Age: 21
Size: 5'10", 177 lbs.

CSS Rank - #62

Sis plays the typical Latvian game: physical, thoughtful and simple. In that way, he is a lot like countrymen Girgensons and Abol, but he's different in that he has a pretty good shot that has translated into goals at every level. He doesn't have Girgensons' heart or defensive tenacity, but he compensates with hockey sense and really good skating. Scouts are all over the board on this fella and he could get picked in Round 2.

Dream: To play on a line with fellow Latvians Zemgus Girgensons and Rodrigo Abols.

Christoph Korner

Nation: Germany Age: 20
Size: 6'2", 185 lbs.

CSS Rank - #63

Scouts like Korner's athleticism. He has good size and tested very well in the combines. He has also shown to be confident and capable with the puck, especially when he moves deep into the opponent's zone. He is solid in almost all areas and should be classified as a two-way defenseman who is needed for powerplay work. Korner tends to take bad penalties, so be prepared to deal with that annoying trait.

Dream: To get into odds making and run a gambling business after his playing days end.

Dominic Zwerger

Nation: Austria Age: 21
Size: 6'0", 205 lbs.

CSS Rank - #64

This is the guy many scouts predict will be the steal of the draft because he has been progressing at a rapid rate with Spokane in the WHL. There is no doubt he can become a decent playmaker in the EURO, but some see holes. They question his intensity level and his ability to work with teammates. Still, most agree his skills will be worthy of second-line duty for several years.

Dream: To someday be a finalist for Rookie of the Year and then work his way up to the all-star squad.

Marek Hrbas

Nation: Czech Rep. Age: 20
Size: 6'0", 196 lbs.

CSS Rank - #65

The second biggest knock on Hrbas is that he gets himself into trouble with the refs on the ice. The biggest knock is that he does the same with cops off the ice. A wild spirit, he could rub teammates the wrong way, but as a defenseman, Hrbas how to play. He can move the puck out of the zone very well and he is a nasty force in front of the net. Scouts classify him as an offensive defenseman.

Dream: To charge into the stands and beat an opposition fan with a shoe, à la Mike Milbury.

Season 9 Draft Prospects

D

Maximilian Adam

Nation: Germany Age: 23
Size: 5'10", 170 lbs.

CSS Rank - #66

It doesn't appear that Adam will grow much more at this point and that's too bad. The young man is a decent skater and very good defensively. If he was bigger and stronger, he would be a top 2 Dman in a few years and for a long time. Adam keeps himself in great shape and he loves blocking shots. He will be a very good penalty killer some day, especially if he is able to gain experience early in his career. It is likely he is two years away from challenging for a starting spot.

Dream: To lead the EURO League in blocked shots.

G

Devin Cooley

Nation: USA Age: 21
Size: 6'5", 183 lbs.

CSS Rank - #67

Cooley has the frame scouts like to see in goalies these days and the California kid who is now at the University of Denver shows some promise although he doesn't have a lot of experience against really good shooters. Some scouts think Cooley has no business being considered for a EURO League job, but others say with some good coaching, his build, composure and technical skills will make him a solid back-up. Dream: To open a chain of combination health food restaurants/movie theaters/taverns designed to keep people in one spot all evening.

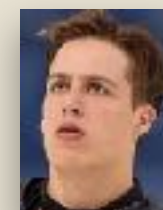

LW

Joakim Nygard

Nation: Sweden Age: 23
Size: 6'0", 180 lbs.

CSS Rank - #68

The Stockholm native could move up the list on draft day because of his ability to skate with the puck. He's definitely a little soft on the ice, especially in net-front traffic, but he can do some fancy things with the puck. Scouts would not be surprised to see him blossom into a 60- or 70-point player. They want to see a better defensive understanding by him before they move him up the prospect list, however. Dream: To end his career as Stockholm's all-time assists leader.

LW

Maxime Comtois

Nation: Canada Age: 19
Size: 6'0", 180 lbs.

CSS Rank - #69

A big-bodied, poised winger who is dependable in all zones...big, quick and skilled...can generate the speed to separate from defenders. He was drafted by the NHL's Anaheim Ducks in Round 2 and played in the last World Juniors tournament. As a Websim prospect, the team that drafts him will be watching to see how Anaheim brings him along toward his attributes. Dream: To make the NHL and EURO "experts" eat crow for passing over him in the first rounds.

RW

Juuso Ikonen

Nation: Finland Age: 22
Size: 5'9", 172 lbs.

CSS Rank - #70

Ikonen is a hard worker who will post 40 points someday as a second- or, more likely, third-line winger. Ikonen is slick with the puck and has very good hockey sense, but he is not big and strong, and he just can't understand the defensive part of the game at all, so as valuable as the Finn will be on powerplay units, that's how much of a liability he will be when the other team gets the puck. Dream: To play in Finland, buy a mansion in the mountains and raise a huge family.

Season 9 Draft Prospects

Markus Spinell

Nation: Italy Age: 20
Size: 5'11", 175 lbs.

CSS Rank - #71

Another Balzano boy, Spinell plays a wild style of hockey but his skating lags and so does his hockey sense. The Italian is tough and loves to check and some scouts see an Andrew Shaw while others mentioned Vladimir Sobotka. He was once captain of a team and scored 46 goals in 28 games that season, but the competition was pretty easy. Still, he brings a lot of different qualities to a team and will be a regular player someday.

Dream: To play for every team in the EURO League and have 24 different jersey numbers.

T.J. Sherwood

Nation: Canada Age: 22
Size: 5'10", 157 lbs.

CSS Rank - #72

Sherwood is a late blooming goalie who was always considered too small. Nevertheless, he believed his quick reflexes would someday get him into the EURO or at least the NHL. Scouts like his save percentage in an Ontario league, but are wondering why it dropped a lot in the playoffs. Like the American Cooley, Sherwood should get signed at some point to be a backup goalie.

Dream: To be called up because of injuries to goalies ahead of him in the depth chart and then win the starting job outright.

Alikhan Asetov

Nation: Kazakhstan Age: 22
Size: 6'2", 190 lbs.

CSS Rank - #73

An excellent teammate who gets into open spaces for passes and tries to set up his linemates for goals, Asetov doesn't have many holes in his game. He has good size and can skate well. Scouts would like to see him think shot a little more and he is one of those guys you don't notice at all some games. He should mature into a good third-line winger with a good attitude.

Dream: To play on a line with Swede Erik Forssell and enjoy some of Rose's cookies.

Eirik Salsten

Nation: Norway Age: 22
Size: 6'0", 195 lbs.

CSS Rank - #74

Salsten has played his entire career in Norway and thinks he's ready to venture out into the rest of Europe. Scouts also think he's ready. Getting drafted is probably a 50/50 proposition for him. He needs a GM to look past his lack of experience and see a well-rounded game. He gets praised for his work rate and desire to succeed.

Dream: To live the Chris Kunitz story. That is, get overlooked by everyone and then get in everyone's face and win a lot.

Mike Groenhof

Nation: Netherlands Age: 21
Size: 6'7", 210 lbs.

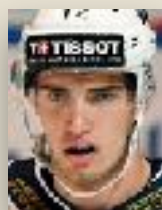

CSS Rank - #75

Gigantic defense prospects usually get scooped up by general managers - Chara, Myers, Oleksiak, Malmivaara, Vakach - all did and they all had varying degrees of success. Groenhof is 6-7 and in the Netherlands, he has shown some puck skills. But as with Salsten of Norway, the level of competition will be questioned by teams assessing Groenhof. He is a poor skater and that will hurt, but his other attributes make him an interesting gamble.

Dream: To play for a contending team and be one of the team's top scoring defensemen.

Season 9 Draft Prospects

Kevin Bozon

Nation: France Age: 20
Size: 6'2", 190 lbs.

CSS Rank - #76

Bozon grew up in his country's premier hockey family so it's not difficult to imagine he has good hockey sense and is technically sound in all areas. Scouts notice he likes scoring goals, but isn't as keen on stopping goals from being scored on his net. Kevin has the same agent as older brother Tim, and his philosophy is that lower salaries will be more attractive to GMs and give the Bozons an advantage over similarly-ranked players.

Dream: To play for the Rouge Eiffels in EURO, to play for Team Europe in the World Cup, and to coach Team France in the Olympics.

Mike Iulianello

Nation: USA Age: 20
Size: 6'0", 170 lbs.

CSS Rank - #77

"Iggy" is a Rochester, NY, product who played for a small college. Skating is his forte. In fact, he is currently skating on the Red Bull Crashed Ice tour. But Iulianello has hands too. When he captained the St. Bonaventure University team, he led the ACHA in points per game. But he might not be able to excel in the best league in the world. Scouts love his physical tools but say his hockey sense will drag him out of the draft.

Dream: To compete in both hockey and Crashed Ice racing in Europe.

Vitali Lyalka

Nation: Ukraine Age: 23
Size: 6'2", 172 lbs.

CSS Rank - #78

With Donbass in the Ukrainian league, Lyalka has been pounding out goals and assists lately. Like Salsten, Groenhof and Iulianello, growing up in lower level leagues might hurt Lyalka's chances to make headway in the EURO. The 23-year-old isn't bad at any aspect of the game, but he doesn't stand out much either. In the right circumstances, he could land a third-line job for several years.

Dream: To be drafted into the EURO League, learn new languages and read a novel each week.

Bernd Wolf

Nation: Austria Age: 19
Size: 5'10", 186 lbs.

CSS Rank - #79

The young Austrian grew up fairly close to the league's office in Vienna, but he might not get much closer to the EURO unless he improves a lot. He reminds some scouts of a young Josh Gorges, but he might not ever be as good defensively as Gorges is. Wolf likes to hit and he's good with a puck, but he has a long way to go in all other areas.

Dream: To take over as the league's director of discipline and player safety after Sepp Blatter retires or dies.

Tyler Plews

Nation: Scotland Age: 20
Size: 6'1", 209 lbs.

CSS Rank - #80

The Scot has very good size and he might not be finished growing. Plews' father and uncle played in Scotland and earlier in his career, Tyler scored some points. But in recent years, he has concentrated solely on playing reliable defense, hoping that will be his ticket to a job in the EURO League. If he can improve his skating, he might get onto a team.

Dream: To play in the EURO League with the Edinburgh Capitals.

Season 9 Draft Prospects

Hafthor Sigrunarson

Nation: Iceland Age: 20
Size: 5'10", 160 lbs.

CSS Rank - #81

A decent skater who knows how to block passing and shooting lanes, Sigrunarson will have to develop more if he hopes to be the first player from Iceland in the league. In Iceland, Sigrunarson scores as many goals as he gets assists, but if he makes it to the EURO it will likely be as a fourth-liner who won't be much of a liability.

Dream: To be the first player from Iceland to play in the EURO League. And to date some really hot chicks.

Balazs Goz

Nation: Hungary Age: 22
Size: 5'11", 192 lbs.

CSS Rank - #82

Another skater from a non-traditional hockey nation, Goz is putting together a nice career in Hungary as a stay-at-home defenseman. On the positive side, he hustles and moves the puck up ice very well. On the negative side, he's not good yet at what all employed defensemen need to be good at: playing defense. Maybe he will learn about positioning and checking and all that stuff in time to sign a EURO contract. Maybe not though.

Dream: To perfect a goulash pizza and eat a whole one in one sitting.

Tan Hellerod

Nation: Norway Age: 22
Size: 6'0", 165 lbs.

CSS Rank - #83

Hellerod was born in Thailand but raised a world away in Norway. He is a fine skater with a mean streak and a decent slapshot. In 90 games in Norway's U20 league, he scored 10 times and racked up 166 PIM. Hellerod could use some coaching at the defensive aspects of the position, but he stands a decent chance of being drafted this year. It would help if he gained some muscular thickness.

Dream: To play for Oslo and score a game-winning goal in the playoffs.

Kilian Van Gorp

Nation: Netherlands Age: 19
Size: 6'3", 189 lbs.

CSS Rank - #84

Van Gorp has been a decent offensive defenseman at home in Holland and in Germany's third division, but successfully scoring points in the EURO League will be a tougher task. He has good size going for him and that's more than some defensemen in this draft have. He will be probably passed over this draft, but team owners will want to check on his progress over the years.

Dream: To become an architect and design rinks.

Luka Vincec

Nation: Slovenia Age: 19
Size: 6'2", 176 lbs.

CSS Rank - #85

Vincec does some scoring in with HK Maribor in Slovenia but don't confuse him with countryman Anze Kopitar. He has skill and does very well at using his pro-type size but that's about it. Scouts don't expect him to score much if he makes it to the EURO League. Eventually, he could get some games in as a grinder.

Dream: To score a EURO League goal.

Season 9 Draft Prospects

Richard Sabol

Nation: Slovakia Age: 19

Size: 5'11", 177 lbs.

CSS Rank - #86

A few scouts like what they see in Sabol, namely his consistency and focus. Sabol is not the kind of goalie who can get by on athleticism and reflexes. He relies on technique and positioning. He posted a 92.2 save percentage recently in Slovakia's second division and he has represented the country in 10 international games.

Dream: To play hockey in any league and use his experiences to build a stand-up comedy routine that will kill in Slovakia.

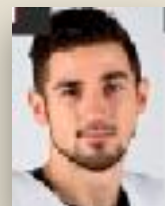

Charles Smart

Nation: Australia Age: 20

Size: 6'2", 185 lbs.

CSS Rank - #87

Good size and a burning desire to make the big leagues has been driving Smart toward the EURO League, but he might not be able to find an empty parking place. The Australian leagues are poor compared to many others in the world and Smart is not dominating there, so scouts are not very high on him. But a few scouts say he is on par with where most young goalies are and would be willing to keep an eye on him. Dream: To meet Nicole Kidman.

Matus Holenda

Nation: Slovakia Age: 23

Size: 5'10", 165 lbs.

CSS Rank - #88

Holenda has been very inconsistent playing in Slovakia, but a few scouts were intrigued by the season he put together with HK Dukla Trencin last season when he scored 28 points in 56 games and drew accolades for his defensive play. His other seasons have been poor, but he can skate and hit. Putting his game together to make it good enough to play in the EURO will take patience and intelligence.

Dream To read every comic book ever printed.
