Season 14 Draft Prospects

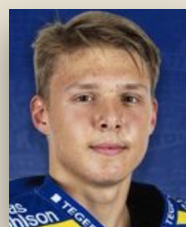

Valentin Nussbaumer

Nation: Switzerland Age: 18
Size: 5'11" 167 lbs.

CSS Rank - #1

The Swiss kid has the physical tools to be a top 6 forward in the EURO League and scouts give him extra points because he seems to think the game very well. He has good vision on the ice and seems to always be concerned about being where he is supposed to be defensively. Nussbaumer is a star on the Swiss U-18 team and the team that drafts him will get a driven, two-way player. Under the right circumstances and with the right linemates, he might top out at 30 goals and flirt with 90 points someday, but his real value will be in his all-around play. In the NHL, his rights are owned by Arizona.

Isak Posch

Nation: Sweden Age: 18
Size: 6'3", 209 lbs.

CSS Rank - #2

Drafting goalies is always a gamble, but scouts are really enamored with Swedish goalie Isak Posch. They say he has an uncanny ability to protect the five hole, which means a lower goals against average than he would have otherwise. It also could mean more wins for his team. He communicates often with his defensemen and is a good skater. If he nails down angles and coming out vs. staying deep - and that's a big if - he will be as good a goalie as you will find.

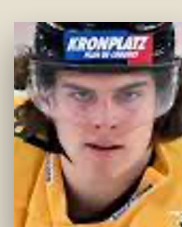

Matteo Gennaro

Nation: Canada Age: 20
Size: 6'2", 190 lbs.

CSS Rank - #3

No draft prospect's ranking rose more than the forward from Western Canada's did in the last year. He is a hard-charging forward who always seems to be around the puck. Gennaro loves scoring and some scouts criticize his decision making in the opposing zones, saying he fails to recognize teammates in better scoring positions, but selfishness might be his lone flaw. He wants to win so bad, his attitude rubs off on teammates and his coaches say he practices just like he plays.

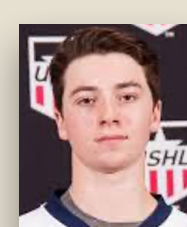

Markus Steinkasserer

Nation: Italy Age: 18
Size: 5'10", 178 lbs.

CSS Rank - #4

Patience will be needed for whoever drafts the Italian who is regarded as the most promising rearguard of the draft crop. He projects to be you typical quiet, reliable defenseman who will take care of business in his own end with smart positioning. He is an average puck mover but will not play on your powerplay. He will however be a steady performer and penalty killer for a good 6 or more seasons once he matures.

Jeremy Swayman

Nation: USA Age: 23
Size: 6'3", 195 lbs.

CSS Rank - #5

A great rookie season with the Boston Bruins gives some EURO team this year's version of Alex Nedeljkovic; that is, a goalie who can step right into the lineup as your possible No. 1. The Alaska native who played college hockey for Maine has always had save percentages north of 90 and he will start off as a 91.4 save pct. guy and could go up from there. He is a safe bet if there ever was one.

Season 14 Draft Prospects

Connor Korte

Nation: Austria Age: 19
Size: 6', 1785 lbs.

CSS Rank - #6

Yet another prospect whose name doesn't seem to match his country, Korte was born in Austria and is also a German citizen. He plays in the Swiss league full-time and put in time with Germany's U-18 team. He projects to be a well-balanced and versatile forward who might have to play center because he's good on faceoffs. Korte may never be an all-star in the EURO, but he should have a job on a second line throughout his career.

Stanislav Vrhel

Nation: Czechia Age: 20
Size: 6'2", 197 lbs.

CSS Rank - #7

If your team needs to improve its goals against average, then drafting Vrhel would be a good step to take. He won't score, but he will be very difficult to play against and your defensemen and goalies will like it when he's on the ice. Part of the Czech's training has been in Finland and scouts like the way he has been developing. Primarily a hustler now, he will be known as a smart checking line asset soon enough.

William Von Barnekow

Nation: Sweden Age: 18
Size: 6'2", 165 lbs.

CSS Rank - #8

Whoever drafts Von Barnekow will send him directly to the nearest restaurant. The boy could use some meat on his bones. His game is solid though, all over the ice. Von Barnekow, who is property of the Buffalo Sabres in the NHL, likes to press for offense, but he is an impressive backchecker too. He should have good puck skills and the only thing he'll be missing is size and strength. He can play any forward position and he's the kind of player who will need to get time on the powerplay to gain confidence and fully develop.

Keith Petruzzelli

Nation: USA Age: 22
Size: 6'5", 195 lbs.

CSS Rank - #9

Tall Keith Petruzzelli did well enough as Quinnipiac University's goalie to draw the attention of the Detroit Red Wings. He still could make the NHL, but he will definitely play in the EURO League and he could be a good one. His save percentage in college was about 92.0 and in juniors and minor league hockey, he has been a consistent winner. One possible issue with the Massachusetts native is his numbers always decrease noticeably in the playoffs.

Simon Gnyp

Nation: Germany Age: 18
Size: 5'11", 185 lbs.

CSS Rank - #10

The German defenseman is just a hair behind Markus Steinkasserer in most scouts' views. Gnyp can wheel and he is serious about being a good defensive player, but his skill with the puck needs a lot of development. He will spend several years on the farm team but his skating is good enough to make him a fixture in a blueline corps for a good stretch of seasons. He is a quiet player, but they say that's a good thing for a defenseman. Gnyp isn't a sexy pick, but he could prove to be a smart one.

Season 14 Draft Prospects

D

Jonas Brondberg

Nation: Denmark Age: 18
Size: 6'4", 196 lbs.

CSS Rank - #11

Dane Jonas Brondberg excels in two areas: being tough in front of his net, and keeping a tight gap against onrushing forwards. That translates into a good defensive player. And he has good size. Playing with Portland in the WHL, Brondberg scored 9 goals one season but has since experienced a drought with only 1 goal in his last 97 games. Another aspect of his game that scouts like is toughness. He can be chippy, but he'll also drop the gloves.

C

Lewis Houston

Nation: Scotland Age: 19
Size: 5'5", 154 lbs.

CSS Rank - #12

Gambling on picking a goalie is one thing. Gambling on a 5-5 kid from Scotland is quite another. But this guy can really move around the ice and he can really get shots off in a hurry. He once scored 42 goals in 12 games. But that was in a Scottish league that your sister would excel in. Still, as he has gotten older and the competition got a little better, he was still shooting and scoring points. In the EURO League, Houston will get pushed around. And he'll score 20 or more regularly.

LW

Tanner Jeannot

Nation: Canada Age: 24
Size: 6'2", 209 lbs.

CSS Rank - #13

Jeannot can step into any lineup today, but at age 24, his ceiling is closer than it is for the rest of his peers in this draft pool. The Canadian is a very busy player. He fought more than anyone in the NHL; and when he wasn't fighting, he was in the penalty box; and when he wasn't there, he was hitting guys; and when he wasn't hitting, he was creating offense: 24 goals and 17 assists in 81 games. No NHL rookie scored more goals than the Nashville Predator did.

D

Ryan McCleary

Nation: Canada Age: 18
Size: 6'2", 185 lbs.

CSS Rank - #14

McCleary is seen as a smart, tough defenseman, who like Brondberg, played for Portland in the WHL. His NHL rights are owned by Pittsburgh, who liked the assists he collected while joining the Winterhawks' offensive rushes. McCleary's best attributes deal with his brain. He is deceptive with the puck and he reads plays well defensively. Many scouts say he'll develop into a two-way Dman who will teeter between the first and second pairs later in his career.

RW

Kyen Sopa

Nation: Switzerland Age: 19
Size: 5'10", 185 lbs.

CSS Rank - #15

Sopa is capable of making flashy, risky passes, but scouts would like to see a little more discretion, since sometimes his passes end up on the wrong stick. He doesn't mind taking a hit to make a play and he doesn't mind dishing out the occasional hit. Sopa played for the Swiss national youth teams before joining the Ontario Hockey League for parts of 3 seasons. No one is sure what kind of player you'll be getting with Sopa, although inconsistent playmaker is the most likely.

Season 14 Draft Prospects

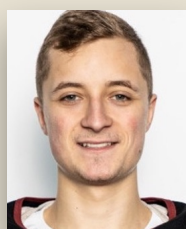

Logan Thompson

Nation: Canada Age: 25
Size: 6', 185 lbs.

CSS Rank - #16

Injuries to other goalies forced Las Vegas to press Thompson into duty earlier than expected and a EURO team should benefit from that occurrence. He got into 19 games, was 10-5-3 with a 2.68 GAA and a 91.4 save percentage. He wasn't spectacular as a junior player in the WHL, but he has been in the AHL with the Henderson Silver Knights, putting together seasons of 94.3 and 92.0 save pct. seasons.

Janis Voris

Nation: Latvia Age: 18
Size: 5'11", 165 lbs.

CSS Rank - #17

Voris is small as goalies go, but he's super quick and teams that value goalie depth will get a real competitor who works his tail off every day and is very coachable. Voris has played all over: Latvia, The United States, Denmark and even in the troubled Donbass region of Ukraine this year. His save percentage has been all over the place too, but when it's high, it's eye-catching. His spectacular performance with Latvia in the 2020 U-20 World Juniors (1.08 GAA, 93.9 save pct.) saw his stock shoot up.

Alexandre Carrier

Nation: Canada Age: 25
Size: 5'11", 175 lbs.

CSS Rank - #18

A mobile defenseman with good hand-eye coordination got his start with the Nashville Predators and it was a good start; 77 games played, 30 points and a +26 rating. The EURO team that drafts him will have a reliable guy to plug into the defense corps, but at age 25, Carrier has a relatively low ceiling. One possible worry: in his career in the Quebec league and AHL, Carrier has consistently faded a bit come playoff time.

Ties Van Soest

Nation: Netherlands Age: 18
Size: 6'4", 182 lbs.

CSS Rank - #19

Van Soest played most of his hockey in Germany and he has proven to be one of the most skillful offensive players available in the top half of the draft. He has been scoring at nearly a point per game in lower German leagues. His skating might hold him back from being a top scorer in the EURO. But compared to the rest of the draft class, Van Soest is as safe a bet as anyone to get his name on the scoresheet.

John Fusco

Nation: USA Age: 19
Size: 5'11", 183 lbs.

CSS Rank - #20

Harvard University is where Fusco played this year after compiling a nice prep resume in New England. His NHL rights are owned by the Maple Leafs, who took him in the 7th round in 2020. Fusco has a decent slapshot but his trademark is calm, cool play and a well-rounded game. You can expect a two-way guy who can play on your second pairing and contribute the occasional goal.

Season 14 Draft Prospects

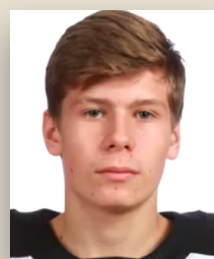

D

Sean Durzi

Nation: Canada Age: 23
Size: 6', 186 lbs.

CSS Rank - #21

The Toronto boy was a pleasant surprise in Los Angeles, where he played regularly as a rookie, getting plenty of minutes and scoring 27 points in 64 games. He took a bunch of penalties and was caught out of position enough to be a -9 player, but at age 23, he has ample time to develop and correct his current problems. He twice scored double-digit goals in the OHL and his new GM will hope he can score like that in the EURO League.

C

Ivan Ivan

Nation: Czechia Age: 19
Size: 5'11", 175 lbs.

CSS Rank - #22

If you watched the World Juniors tourney, you probably remember the broadcast crew commenting about his unique name. Aside from that, you might remember a guy with some skill with a healthy portion of heart to his game. With Cape Breton in the Quebec Major Junior league, his point total went from 22 to 65 in a year. That jump is quite noticeable. But scouts say he is going to be more of a two-way forward than a sniper or playmaker. He's an excellent skater and a hustler. His decision-making and stickhandling are questionable, though.

D

Andrew Peeke

Nation: USA Age: 23
Size: 6'3", 196 lbs.

CSS Rank - #23

The Florida native is a big, durable and mobile defenseman who followed up a college career at Notre Dame with a couple AHL seasons and then a starting role in Columbus. He scored 2 goals and had 3 assists this season for the Blue Jackets. Scouts like the way he reads plays on defense and they like his skating. He could get a bit more physical, though.

D

Tim Berni

Nation: Switzerland Age: 20
Size: 6', 186 lbs.

CSS Rank - #24

When Berni gains possession of the puck he is smooth as Swiss chocolate. Actually getting the puck is where the defenseman might have problems. He doesn't have strong defensive instincts, nor does he have a lot of physical strength. And he finds himself out of position too often. That said, he projects to be a good puck-mover and a guy who will seem at home on one of your powerplay units. The Columbus Blue Jackets took a chance and drafted him in 2018. It would be cool if Berni was born in Bern, wouldn't it? He wasn't. Mannedorf is listed as his place of birth.

D

Bryce Montgomery

Nation: USA Age: 18
Size: 6'4", 220 lbs.

CSS Rank - #25

Here's that man-child you were looking for. Tanner Jeannot is the best fighter in the draft, but Monty will give him a good bout. He uses his big body well along the boards and in front of the net, and his good skating ability gives him the ability to dish out big hits in open ice too. Montgomery was born in Washington, D.C., and he was drafted by Carolina in the NHL. He will have one job on whatever team he's on, and it won't be goal scorer.

Season 14 Draft Prospects

Lukas Vashco

Nation: Lithuania Age: 18
Size: 6', 173 lbs.

CSS Rank - #26

Vashco moved to North America a few years back and he has done very well in some junior leagues and the USPHL. He also has about 30 games with the national age group teams under his belt. He went from sniper to playmaker since his move across the Atlantic and he will surprise people with his consistency and two-play if he's given the chance to prove himself. If Vashco can put on 15 pounds of muscle and then learn how to use it, he will have a very good career.

Jeremi Gerber

Nation: Switzerland Age: 21
Size: 6'1"; 188 lbs.

CSS Rank - #27

Gerber has spent almost his entire youth career playing in Bern. He used to be a pretty formidable offensive forward, scoring at over a point-per-game clip. But for some reason, his production has plummeted the last two seasons. Perhaps he adopted the role the coaches of the national team gave him in his last 36 games over four tournaments representing Switzerland. Gerber is fast and has good hockey sense. For sure, he will be viewed as a valued defensive forward.

Ben Solder

Nation: England Age: 19
Size: 5'10", 171 lbs.

CSS Rank - #28

As a young teen, Solder played in England, and that's where he is playing today. But in between are six seasons in Canada and the U.S. His best showing came as a member of the Islanders Hockey Club of the USPHL Premier league, when he scored a point every other game, on average, and then was flat out great in the playoffs. But scouts won't say he's ready until they see him play against stronger competition. The athletic Solder moves well and has decent speed, but needs to upgrade his skills in all other areas.

Ryan McLeod

Nation: Canada Age: 22
Size: 6'2", 207 lbs.

CSS Rank - #29

The Mississauga boy is another player who is big but doesn't use his size as often as he could. But his effortless skating is the key to his game. McLeod's game seemed to turn around during a Covid-period loan to EV Zug in Switzerland. He returned to Bakersfield in the AHL to score 28 points in 28 games and that earned him a call-up to the NHL, where he tallied 21 points for Edmonton. Look for him to be a good, two-way center someday.

Alexander Lundman

Nation: Sweden Age: 19
Size: 6', 187 lbs.

CSS Rank - #30

After being a productive member of junior teams in Sweden, Lundman will try to make it in American college hockey with Bemidji State. He seems to be a throwback to the Swedish forwards who were skillful and more intent on making pretty plays than getting into hand-to-hand combat for pucks along the boards and in front of the net. He is going to be a middle 6 two-way forward, scouts say.

Season 14 Draft Prospects

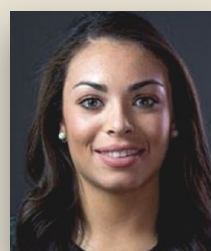

Baptiste Bruche

Nation: France Age: 19
Size: 6'1", 190 lbs.

CSS Rank - #31

Good hockey sense. That's Bruche's top asset. He is a man of intrigue to the scouts. No one seems to know what kind of player he will be in a few years. Some say a two-way guy, others a defensive forward. Bruche still plays in the town of his birth, Amiens, but he has ventured out into some international tournaments where he's posted very good offensive numbers. Somehow. He doesn't grade well in puck skills, skating ... anywhere really. But he still manages to get the job done. Somehow.

Sarah Nurse

Nation: Canada Age: 23
Size: 5'8", 145 lbs.

CSS Rank - #32

Nurse is one of the better women players in the world and she loves to play and compete. She is not hesitant at all to play the men, although she is sure success will be tougher to come by in the world's top league. She's used to scoring more than a point per game, and while she has excellent puck skills and good hockey sense, her size will tamp down her offensive stats and keep her from winning a lot of puck battles.

Michael Bunting

Nation: Canada Age: 26
Size: 6', 185 lbs.

CSS Rank - #33

Bunting's new owner will be lucky he played with Auston Matthews this NHL season, but unlucky he didn't have that great fortune much earlier. Bunting is a plug-and-play winger who scored 63 points in 79 NHL games. The difference in the 26-year-old's OV and PO ratings is relatively tight for a draftee. Bunting will add to the offense for sure, and he'll play a tough brand of hockey. If you try to push him or his teammates around, he'll push back.

Dan Vladar

Nation: Czechia Age: 24
Size: 6'5", 185 lbs.

CSS Rank - #34

Vladar played backup goalie for a pretty good team - Calgary - this NHL season and he played 23 games, which earned him Websim attributes. His winning percentage was excellent and his GAA (2.75) and save percentage (90.6) weren't spectacular, but he could fill a long-term need of many EURO teams. There's a good chance he will be a starter in Europe before his is in Calgary with Jacob Markstrom ahead of him on the depth chart.

Artjoms Lapiks

Nation: Latvia Age: 20
Size: 6'2", 203 lbs.

CSS Rank - #35

Lapiks is the most versatile player available in the draft. Like Bratislava's Gregory Beron, he can play five positions. Lapiks is well traveled, having played seasons in Sweden, the USA and France. He is not goal-hungry, that's for sure. His highest goal total for a calendar year is 11. But he is pretty good defensively, and he has very good size. Aside from that, his top attribute is ... well, as we said, his versatility.

Season 14 Draft Prospects

Ross Colton

Nation: USA Age: 25

Size: 6', 192 lbs.

CSS Rank - #36

Colton has a little more experience than his fellow draft candidates and he's one of the better faceoff men available in this part of the draft. He played for the University of Vermont and then in the AHL with Syracuse, collected a lot of assists and earned a trip to Tampa to play a full season with the Lightning. His high-effort game resulted in 22 goals and 17 assists this season and that was after playing 30 regular season games the previous regular season and 23 more in Tampa's Stanley Cup campaign.

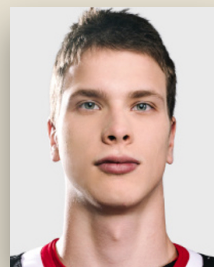

Eric Comrie

Nation: Canada Age: 26

Size: 6'1", 183 lbs.

CSS Rank - #37

Comrie isn't big, as goalies go these days, but the Alberta native has been stopping pucks at a great rate in Manitoba lately with the Moose in the AHL and the Jets in the NHL. It's Comrie's second go-round with Winnipeg, after stops in Detroit and New Jersey, and he seemed to want to make a statement this season, posting a 92 save percentage and 2.58 GAA. If you are drafting him, it should be to be your backup now, rather than your future starter because he is already 26 year old.

Kirill Steklov

Nation: Estonia Age: 19

Size: 6'4", 190 lbs.

CSS Rank - #38

In Russia and in 34 games with London of the OHL, Steklov has been a rock on defense. Steady Steklov doesn't venture up ice - pretty much ever - because he doesn't want to be out of position. If defensive hockey - clearing the puck and dumping and chasing - is a team's prime concern, Steklov would be a good pick in the second round. But if you require all your Dmen to be able to lug the puck and get shots on the opponent's net, then look past the Estonian.

Jing Wang

Nation: China Age: 18

Size: 5'11", 178 lbs.

CSS Rank - #39

The Chinese forward has decent potential as a middle 6 forward. He is currently all offense and will be a liability when the other team has the puck, but scouts see a full-time job in his future. Look for Wang to develop into a player who stays on the periphery of action but who's giving maximum effort every shift. He trains hard and has been gaining muscle, so if he keeps that up, he'll be more valuable.

Nico Daws

Nation: Germany Age: 21

Size: 6'4", 203 lbs.

CSS Rank - #40

Scouts are divided on the Munich-born goalie who learned the game in Ontario, Canada. Some scouts look at Daws and soon look elsewhere because they don't see much. But others like his size and positioning and feel he's worth the investment of a draft pick in the second half of the second or in the third round. With New Jersey, he had a 89.3 save percentage in 25 games. Daws did have a very good season with Guelph 3 seasons ago.

Season 14 Draft Prospects

Vladislav Saiko

Nation: Kazakhstan Age: 20

Size: 5'10", 185 lbs.

CSS Rank - #41

One scout went as far as to call Saiko a blockhead. His head doesn't seem to be in the game most of the time, but the guy can hit and he isn't afraid to drop the gloves. He will be classified as a grinder and he won't be a bad pick if that's what you are looking for. Opponents won't enjoy playing with him ... but neither will his teammates if they are open for passes or expecting him to fill in the gaps they just left behind them.

Jami Krannila

Nation: Finland Age: 21

Size: 5'10", 167 lbs.

CSS Rank - #42

Krannila has been a good teammate at St. Cloud State University for 3 seasons now and he's shown progress each year. He scored 15 goals and had the same number of assists this year in 37 games. He projects to be a two-way forward who can play on your 3rd line for sure. The Pori native seems to shy away from contact but he will buzz around the front of the net looking for deflections and rebounds.

Temuri Vedyapin

Nation: Georgia Age: 21

Size: 6'2", 195 lbs.

CSS Rank - #43

He's Georgian, but there's not much opportunity for him there, so Vedyapin took his skates to Canada where he latched on with the Maniwaki Mustangs in the CPJHL, and he acquitted himself pretty well on a team of mostly Canadians. His 13 goals were 7th on the team. If he has a future in the EURO, it's as a low-cost fourth-liner. Vedyapin's skating is poor, but don't be surprised to see him handle the puck better than you expected and then to pop in the odd goal here and there.

Dysin Mayo

Nation: Canada Age: 25

Size: 6'2", 196 lbs.

CSS Rank - #44

Mayo developed little by little after being a 5th round pick in 2014, but he made it to the Arizona Coyotes this season and stuck there with pretty dependable, if not spectacular two-way play. In 68 games, the Victoria, B.C., native scored 4 goals and had 8 assists. He was -22 on a bad team and he took 27 minutes in penalties. Mayo was an alternate captain in his WHL days with Edmonton and he contributed 37 assists in two straight seasons with the Oil Kings.

Rem Pitlick

Nation: USA Age: 25

Size: 5'11", 182 lbs.

CSS Rank - #45

Pitlick broke into the NHL on the worst team in the league, played about half a season, and did enough to be a solid draft prospect in the EURO League. The son of former NHL defenseman Lance, and the cousin of current NHLer Tyler, Pitlick will not make the top forward line on his future team, but he will contribute with hustle, checking and he'll give you some secondary scoring.
